You could be the project manager, the accountant, the designer, the sales executive or the tea boy, but no matter what your role, you will work hard to make sure you are there to hear the words... "You're Hired!"

Each guest must act as an integral member of a team to succeed, but there can only be one winner. So it's every man and woman for themselves in this race to win the ultimate accolade, as you do battle to become 'The Apprentice'.

Undertaking a series of challenging tasks, head to head against your rivals, candidates must first elect a 'project manager' to take responsibility for the task and then perform as a team in a bid to secure victory.

Winning on each task is rewarded with a cash prize and success results in promotion, as members of the losing team face their peers and seek to justify their actions. At the end of each task guests will move between the teams to start afresh on their next task.
